Current Radio Program

Through the Microphone By RODNEY TUNE

Our experiences Monday night might well be termed "The Troubles of the Trouble Hunters." Hardly had the darkness fallen, when we received a call from another fan who had risen in indignation aganist the disturbance encountered in his attempts to reach outside the city. and was in favor of doing a "Paul Revere" to arouse enthusiasts in the track-

The telephone was immediately called into play and another fan was asked to lend the services of his automobile to use with a portable set and loop. All that remained , then, was to secure the portable loon The trouble shooters were ready outside. The set, however, could not be secured. Telephone call after telephone call failed to locate any fan who had a set small enough or portable enough to take around in the auto-Most of the enthusiasts were mobila so enthusiastic that they were equipped others, upon whom reliance had been placed to furnish the portable set when the emergency arose, were either out condition to use.

the noise and saying to each other, "Isn't it terrible?" which did not seem to accomplish much in the way of removing the trouble. The trouble itself consisted of a very occasion interpelations of other and more icious disturbance. Under the head of atmospheric troubles came a very decided fading which spoiled the program of practically any station except WGY
